

The Attorney General Translates Liquor Act

Edmonton, Feb. 14.—Bringing to close the debate on the speech from the throne on the Legislative Tuesday afternoon, Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Attorney General, dealt with the illustration of the liquor act and while he was not prepared at present to announce the amendments to the Liquor Act he introduced he outlined broadly the policy of the Government with respect to the act. He announced the appointment to be made shortly of the panel to take charge of the policing of the Liquor Act and the appointment of a sub-committee to handle the administration of the act, and the two men whom he believed would have the confidence of the people of the province. Upon two main principles depended the success of any law, declared Mr. Brownlee. The first was a proper and adequate enforcement of the law and he believed that the new government intended to be to its plain and simple duty to give the people no longer an administration and as strict an enforcement of the liquor law as was possible. He did not mean to enter that this had not been done by the previous government. He said the second principle was that Mr. Brownlee, the support of the people in upholding the law was of vital necessity. He believed the most important question was the education of the people in obedience of the law referred to the iniquitous propaganda going on to undermine public respect for the liquor law, and declared it to be the plain duty of every citizen to give this law so long as it was on the statute books, his complete obedience and respect. He placed responsibility or education in this way directly upon those who were supporters and sympathizers of the act, declaring the tendency of such people was to criticize the police when it should be to educate those not so sympathetic. He declared it was the duty of every citizen to keep obedience of the law. Respect for the law was the one essential in our civilization. Mr. Brownlee declared that respect for the law permitted in many homes the most effective road to juvenile delinquency, and he hoped the time would come when governments would give more attention to the advancement of human nature rather than to punishment.

Gleichen Scouts are Nicely Complimented

A singular compliment was paid our Scouts last Saturday afternoon when the troop was inspected by Mr. Harry Harris, of Calgary, representing the provincial field secretary of the provincial organization of Alberta. Mr. Harris said: "You have the fullest attendance of the most obedient troop of scouts I have seen in my life, the cleanest and smartest looking troop of scouts I have seen with pleasure to inspect in the Dominion of Canada."

After the inspection the local association met and appointed the Pres. Canon Cornish and Scout Master Corp. R. E. Harper to attend the provincial meeting in Calgary Feb. 21.

GLEICHEN LOCAL U. F. A. AND U. F. W. A. PLAIN SOCIAL EVENING

Come and enjoy a good supper and social evening in the Gleichen Hall on Friday evening, February 17th. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock, at which time there will be community singing. Reports of delegates who attended the annual convention and an address by Mrs. Mary Finko, of Stonewall, U. F. W. A. director of Red River Conference. A collection will be taken and there is no limit to the amount that you can drop into the hat.

CURLING

Saturday last two big risks from the Gleichen U. F. W. A. made a successful trip to Inverness for the curling and incidentally brought some new members to the team. The teams lined up as follows:

McClure, Culbert, Fred Johnson, Wines, Clifford Dan McDonald and Elliot. Allen and Dremor went down to look after boys.

It was a great game, with many tricks all the way through, but mostly decided by our own boys as the score stood indicate.

At the start of the game the lights were very poor, but got better as the game progressed.

The books aggregation were with the services of their star player, football, but the writer is confident would not have made much difference as McDonald's trusty eye never deceived him.

Skip Woods had a hard time to beat the person of Mr. Stewart, but was over in danger of winning his game as a broke fan said, "Read the score and weep."

The final scores read:

25 to 7

17 to 6

Just 20 points to go.

After the game the boys were really entertained at a supper in the hall, where the cup was handed back and where it may be expected to stay for many a long day.

One regrettable fact remains—that the books were dry, the druggist being dumb out; but, nevertheless, it was an enjoyable trip and a profitable one.

The local committee at its last meeting Feb. 7th estimates that a sum total of $250 is required to take care of all cases of distress for the winter. In addition to this the Gleichen branch is asked by the head office to contribute $200 as our share for the much needed fund required for the residents of the district at large of south Alberta, for the winter.

Daughters Banquet Their Fathers

A unique and successful event arranged by the Senior, Intermediate and Junior Girls Clubs, which took the form of a father and daughter banquet, was held on Friday evening, Feb. 10, at the Gleichen Hotel. About seventy gathered around the tables, including daughters, fathers and adopted fathers and also a sprinkling of mothers.

The dads, who were the guests of the evening, were happily entertained to lunch, at which members of the clubs served. After supper an excellent program, consisting of songs and addresses, filled out an evening which will not soon be forgotten by those who were present.

One incident on the program touched every father's heart. The club members responded to the Roll Call, with a tribute to fathers, the last member repeating the following lines:

I have been slow to learn, but now, With recollections that are sweet, I brad a lesson for my brow, And say my tribute at your feet.

After this the girls gracefully presented a caration on the lips of their fathers' cheeks. This little act, so thoughtfully arranged and so charmingly done, will remain a happy memory with the men, who were so honored.

The following toast list was presented from many members any of which merit special mention.

"To Our Fathers," was fittingly introduced by Miss Ella Johnston. Mr. MacLean responded in a happy vein, saying that since this so solemn recognition he saw in this event evidences of a good time coming.

"To Mother," was proposed by Miss M. Peterson who read "Whitcomb Riley's poem," "The Old Sweetheart of Mine." The response was made by singing "Mother Macrae."

Miss Cutler proposed the toast to our pioneer fathers, paying light tribute to the men who blazed trails across the open plains to lay the foundations of new homes and communities. These men, endued with grit and hardihood, with hearts stout and true and met the many em, em, em, pioneer life with a wealth of resource known only to a pioneer father.

Following Canon Stockton related a number of interesting episodes of the days when Gleichen was young. A little later Canon Cornish who is also an old time in Gleichen recalled other incidents of those "good old days."

The toast to our western girls was introduced by Mr. Matthews whose admiration for and confidence in the Western girls is unbounded.

Mr. Fisher replied in useful manner saying that he hoped the western girl would measure up to the high tribute paid her and that she would always give her best effort to be true to the important part in life.

Among the musical numbers following the feast was a two-part chorale, which the Intermediate girls did exceptionally well. A solo by Mrs. Stronach was also very much appreciated.

The whole proceedings on Friday evening must have impressed both fathers and daughters that each have a treasure in the other of which we will be proud.

Next Friday night Gleichen folks are to have their fill of good hockey. No less than two games being arranged for that night, between the Basisto and Gleichen girls and the Basisto and Gleichen boys.

After the game the Women's Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. will give a dance in the Opera House, and also serve supper.

Every one will want to see this two games and cheer the girls on to victory.

FATHERS AND SONS

How many a man whose father has long since gone from earth comes in time to find himself at the point of an almost complete understanding with him, and longs passionately that the father were here for just a moment that he might now express his love, appreciation and understanding which the fulfilling years have brought. With such a thought in mind, Charles H. Howard of St. Louis, at a luncheon of the members of the Chamber of Commerce, read a letter to his dead father with the expressed hope that it might do something to promote a better understanding between living fathers and their sons. So wise and yet so pathetic is this letter that it is here quoted at some length as it may continue its work of barrier-removing. Mr. Howard wrote as follows:

Dear Dad—I am writing this to you, though you have been dead thirty years. I feel I must say some things to you, things I didn't know when I was a boy in your house, and things I was to stupid to say. It is only now, after passing through the long, hard school of years, only now, when my own hair is gray, that I understand how you felt.

I must have been a bitter trial to you. I believed my own petty wisdom, and I know how ridiculous it was compared to that calm, wholesome wisdom, of yours. Most of all I want to confess my worst sin against you. It was the feeling that you "did not understand." When I look back over it now I know that you did understand. You understood me better than I did myself. Your wisdom flowed around mine like the ocean around an island. And how patient you were with me! How full of long suffering kindness! And how pathetic, it now comes home to me, were your efforts to get close to me, to win my confidence, to be my pal! I wouldn't let you. I couldn't. What was it that held me aloof? I did not know. But it is tragic—that wall that rises between a boy and his father, and their frantic attempts to see through it and climb over it.

I wish you were here now, across the table from me just for an hour, so that I could tell you how there is no wall anymore. I understand you now. * * * For have a boy of my own.

And it is he that makes me want to go back to you, get down on my knees to you and ask you to hear me, Dad and believe me.

It may be well for all fathers who happen to read this letter to remember that, though the boy may seem now impervious to much of the paternal wisdom and love, the time will come, if the father himself is wise and patient, when the son will understand and appreciate.

Happy are those fathers who live to see the day! but it is not necessary to see it with these eyes. Wisdom and love are able to foresee to an extent and to be sure, despite all barriers, that they will see as they now foresee, the travail and longings of their souls—and will be satisfied. All men, fathers and sons alike, are brothers together in that they are the sons of God and will, some day see eye to eye.

If I were asked to give advice to a group of young folks who wanted to get ahead in business," said a successful man one day, "I would simply say, MAKE FRIENDS. As I sat here before the fire the other night, I let my mind run back, and it was with surprise that I learned that many of the things which in my youth I credited to my ability as a business man, came to me because I made influential friends, who did things for me.

Every shrewd newspaper reader readily acknowledges that a most important part of the real news, the news that affects pocket books, is found in the advertisements of the local merchants. The merchant who advertises is a reporter. He reports to the newspaper what he has to offer, and it is real news. It affects the pocket book of every family. If some merchant is making a great un on shoes and selling them cheap, that is news that every person who needs shoes ought to know. If another is offering special bargains in overcoats, underwear, corsets, hats, furniture, dress goods, carpets, groceries, or wood stoves or on any thing a family needs, it is news that means money to every family and the people ought to know it. That's why all merchants should advertise in the local newspaper. People want to know where to get what they need and the advertisement often tells them what they need and where to get it.
